

I have been very happy with Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. I didn't realize how much telemarketing interrupted our evenings until they couldn't call anymore. I can contact companies that I do business with when I want to. I get information in the billing statements advertising new services or features so I'm not missing out on products or services that they offer. I feel it would only be more interruptions that I don't want. I like Indiana's Telephone Privacy law and don't want it weakened.

Sincerely,

Michael J Stewart
